OLD-TIME COLD CURE-DRINK TEA!

Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a eacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the owels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegtable, therefore harmless.

Anthony League Meets.

The Anthony League held its reguar weekly meeting on Wednesday afernoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the president, Mrs. Anna E. Hendley. 2007 Columbia road. The subject under discussion was "Thrift and the High Cost of Living." Mrs. Grace Bartlett, vice director of the saving department of the Treasury, was present and urged the formation of 'How-to-Buy Clubs," and suggested that each woman should examine her own expenditures more carefully to see that she was not responsible as an individual for the high cost of many of the commodities which she must use. The suggestion was made by some of the league members that shoes should be standardized, as men's shoes have been for years; which would reduce the cost, while making them more comfortable and increase the wearing qualities.

The following were admitted to nembership: Mrs. J. L. Locher, Mrs. J. S. Bryan, Dr. Julia F. Coghlin, Miss M. Williamson, Mrs. Manning, Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Mary Wright Johnson, and Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. Florence Lyons, and Mrs. Breithaupt.

Large Audience Turns Out to Hear New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

That the return of Josef Stransky and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra into the music life of Washington was a welcome one was amply lemonstrated at the National Theater yesterday afternoon by the warmth of their reception from the large audience. And that they are held in as high esteem as ever be-came evident at the close of the truly great rendition of the "Bacchanale" from "Tannhauser." by repeated re-calls of the director and a final ac-knowfedgment with the entire orchestra standing.

Program Delightful.

A delightful program it was, do lightfully given-from the opening phrase when Mr. Stransky's vital, spirited control was felt in the blitheness of the Dvorak "Carnival" overture. Personality, delicacy of perception and touch in leadership, and the intimate feeling for his music characterize this director whose contribution to orchestral music is rich in interpretation and in program mak-

Three types of orchestration were given in strong contrast, with De-bussy, Wagner, and Rachmaninoff. Debussy in two "Nocturnes," one his nost intangible web of "musical dissonance," of dripping liquid tone and the "Nuages, Clouds," the other rare sportive delicacy of harp-like sweeps of strings, of plucking episodes, strange tonality, and orchestra color that tells the lurid tales of Debussy's "Festivais," in scenic music that yet includes an opal "Pastorale." There is surely no greater wealth of orchestral body and color and life than in Wagner. The "Bacchanale," that height of breathless beauty, that epitome of "profane" music as it has been called, in the love of Venus and Tannhauser, was given with unusual delicacy in its haste, its galloping of "Venusberg" motive, its sweeps of harp of soaring on and up to an ecstacy. And then the ex-quisite beauty of the "Love theme" in heights and "transfiguration" equaled by only one other in the world of music, and that is Tschaikowsky. Its rendition was a notable
